

Statement on Open Participation – 19th IIR Conference on Cryogenics, Dresden, Germany, April 26–30, 2027

On behalf of the International Institute of Refrigeration (IIR), it is my great pleasure to invite scientists, researchers, engineers and industry professionals from around the world to participate in the 19th IIR Conference on Cryogenics, which will take place from 26 to 30 April 2027 in Dresden, Germany.

With the call for abstracts now open, the conference will bring together the international cryogenics community to exchange the latest scientific and technological developments, strengthen collaborations, and advance innovative solutions that contribute to a more sustainable and efficient future.

As the world's only intergovernmental organisation dedicated to refrigeration, cryogenics and heat pump technologies, the IIR is committed to promoting scientific excellence and international cooperation. Our conferences provide a neutral platform where experts from all countries can meet, share knowledge and build partnerships, irrespective of political circumstances. We therefore warmly welcome participants from all regions of the world and particularly encourage the active participation of experts from all IIR Member Countries, whose contributions have been instrumental to the success of this conference series.

While the IIR and the local organising committee will make every effort to facilitate your participation by providing the necessary supporting documentation, visa issuance remains the sole responsibility of the competent German authorities. We therefore strongly encourage all participants requiring a visa to begin the application process as early as possible and to contact the relevant German embassy or consulate in their country for guidance.

Beyond an outstanding technical programme, the 19th IIR Conference on Cryogenics will be an opportunity to strengthen international cooperation, foster new partnerships and shape the future of cryogenic technologies together.

I sincerely hope to welcome you to Dresden in April 2027, and I wish you all the best in your preparations.

Director General Dr.-Ing Yosr Allouche
